Re: LOGAN RATH

To Whom It May Concern,

I am a Professor of Criminal Justice. I began at the college in August 2013 and Logan is our contact in the Drake Library. I am writing to commend him as a wonderful resource for me in the courses I teach. I began inviting him to help me teach my students APA citations and referencing guidelines and he has a real talent for connecting with and really teaching students the technical intricacies of these guidelines. In addition I have asked him to show my classes how to do a library search online and I give him a copy of my assignments and he will tailor his lesson to the requirements of my classes. I now take all my classes for at least one session each semester with Logan.

Aside from the support Logan gives me for my classes he is untiring in his commitment to supporting me as faculty in my pursuit of research. He has made me aware of online resources as well as resources in Drake. I consider him a close colleague and my 'go to' for anything library related. He represents Drake library with vigor and encourages students to make use of the resources on offer, especially the writing desk. He makes himself available to students and he certainly enhances my teaching experience.

I am grateful we have such a talented and committed librarian on campus. It is my privilege to be a colleague of Logan and I think he shows leadership (for example his involvement in the Faculty Roles and Rewards Review Committee); and a passion for continued improvement and academic pursuit as seen by his enrolling in doctoral studies. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you require any further information.

Yours truly

Ingrid McGuffog PhD.
